

WASHINGTON BUSINESS JOURNAL

---

From the January 27, 2006 print edition

Looking for more Grubb

Grubb & Ellis is looking to beef up its biotech business – and has hired local pro Pat Larrabee to help out.

Larrabee will provide training and consulting services to Grubb & Ellis staff here and throughout the nation. She will help win new business for the Northbrook, Ill.-based firm, which wants to expand its biotech specialty practice.

"Absolutely, [this deal] represents a positive move," says Larrabee, who led the biotech group at Rockville-based Scheer Partners for five years before starting Burtonsville-based Facility Logix about 18 months ago.

"Hiring Pat as an outside contractor ... is unprecedented for our company," says Keith Summers, a vice president in Grubb & Ellis' Vienna office. [Neil Adler]

---